What can I say about my Best Friend, Jenny Contrereas, except she was a wonderful Mother to her children and grandchildren and loved Life....We had tremedous happy days and had so much in common, most of our kids were all the same age and our lives were so similiar but the best thing about Jenny, she was always there to listen and so was I with her....we used to say, you know God knew what he was doing when he brought us together.....we were both raising grandchildren and of course loved them as if they were our children....She loved my kids and I loved hers....I have alot of memories of Jenny and myself and she will Never be forgotten nor will we stop loving her....I am just happy she is free of pain and no longer suffer....I love you, Jenny Contreras and Thank God, I told her that over and over before she left this earth...

"Hola, que pasa senora"... (remember I'd say that every time I'd walk in your front door) Mother, I'm lost without you. You were my best friend, who will listen to me when I have to talk? No one will ever fill your shoes momma. It was too soon, there were millions of things we still needed to do. I'm glad you were able to join me in New York (twice), you loved it so much, you even mentioned the other day, "lets go to New York and just ride around and watch the deer wonder around in the streets and maybe go to the City and walk around Times Square". You also said, when I get better, can you make me some homemade tortillas, beans, smoke sausage, papitas, and coffee"... I'm sorry I wasn't able to do that for you one more time mommy. Oh and that Dining Room of yours will never be the same, who will sit in your chair and say "come sit with me and listen to some music". You loved company coming over and sitting with you in that dining room to just chat and listen to music, oldies music that is. That's something that your kids and grandkids have inherited, the love of oldies music!!! You're with grandma now, you are in good hands, it's not FRITHIN there but we put a sweater on you because you were ALWAYS cold.... No more pain my love! Be a good girl... (Remember I'd say that every time I'd leave) Save me a chair.... Love you Mommy! Your Daughter, Annette Cipriano

A very special person left this world to go be with God. She fulfilled her obligations here so God called her to be with him. We will all miss her and we will hurt. She has gone to meet with her family. Everybody should cherish the moments you spent with her. God bless family and friends in this time.

My Tia Jennie was a very nice, and funny person to be around, always made us lugh no matter what, she will be missed dearly. Thank you Jesus for giving me the opportunity to see her the day before you called her home. She is now in paradise reunited with loved ones but know that she is still living and starting a new life in heaven. No more pain no more suffering.
