Sometimes it's the small things that I remembered that left the biggest impact in my life. She might have never known about it but things like camping trips really made a difference in my life. I don't think I would have ever done camping if it wasn't for her and Wesley. But dang it, she was an awesome cook at camp. The fastest too. And she cooked and cleaned up everything so we could go out to play again. As a mom now, I realized it's a lot of work caring for a bunch of hungry kids. LOL. I have a lot of wonderful memories and happy moments with her and I hope she had the same with all of us. Sometimes we get so busy with everything that goes on in our lives that we forget a lot of things but I won't ever forget this because I tell my kids about it all the time. ?? Rest in Peace Wanda. You will be missed.
