Pete, Our deepest sympathy for you loss. It just doesn't seem right that a lovely woman like Nellie would be taken so young and after such a good fight. Surely there's a reason that someday we'll understand. We can only hope she's in a better place that's happy and healthy. Nellie lives on though through you, her children and her grandchildren. You can see her face in her children and you'll all have countless memories to bring her back whenever you like. Take comfort in her full and happy life and fine legacy. We will miss her. Lecia, We are SO sorry to hear about your sweet momma. Bless her heart, she fought the battle for such a long time. We pray that the Lord will just hold you tight as you and your family make your way through this. We can't believe that your mom and Michael's mom passed away within days of each other. Our service is today...a celebration of a life spent loving the Lord. A friend told me that grief was like standing at the edge of the ocean, with your back turned toward the water...sometimes the waves (like grief) will come and brush your ankles – but then at other times, the waves will roll over you and knock you down...i have found that to be true through all the years since i lost my momma and daddy.....even to this day, the waves will come – and that is the time the Lord carries me. We are praying for you and your family. Take hold of the Hand that can guide you – He will comfort you and heal your hearts. Love, cindy and Michael

Lecia, I cannot tell you how sorry I was and how shocked I was to walk in last week and ask how your mother was doing and have you tell me the news. When I got into the car I started crying. I have been praying for your mother since she was first diagnosed and was so excited that she had a match for the transplant and she was getting prepared for it. My heart truly breaks for you and your family. God obviously needed a new angel in heaven and he choose her. What an awesome prviliege, but how it leaves our hearts broken until we see her again in heaven. In heaven with a brand new body free from disease forever. Even though I never knew her personally I felt as if I did. You know I am a prayer warrior and when I first found out she was diagnosed I prayed and continued to. I bear the burdens of my close friends and family because as a Christian that it what God calls us to do. To be there and pray for one another. She was a beautiful woman with such a pretty smile and I know she will deeply be missed by those who loved her. You have that pretty smile like your mother and you so favor her. I am so sorry for your loss and I know you will cherish those fond memories you have forever in your heart. I will pray for you and your family that God will help you get through this difficult time in your lives. Love in Christ. Your friend, Kim, Derek, Kendall & Kaylan McDonald
