It breaks my heart. It really does. I can't accept the fact you're not here physically. I keep telling myself you're either at school with Dennis, kickin' it with your friends, or on vacation. But those are just lies to myself. You were so beautiful, so beautiful; don't let anybody make you think otherwise. Everyone loves you. I will always keep you in my heart; you are just too precious, how can I forget about you? Your sister, Vanessa Ly

Louis. You're my best friend, I freaking love you. I remember all the times we had together, amazing times, right? I miss your laugh and all of your crazy mannerisms and how we used to just make each other laugh non-stop. I thought we were going to last past high school and college. It feels like this is all happening on another dimensional plane and I don't get how everything keeps on going on.

Dear louii You were one of the bestest guy freinds i ever made in the seventh grade.I met you in mrs doudlas's english class.You were the only nice and normal one in the class. We got paired up for a scary story report for halloween. Your story made story of the week. It scared alot of people. People getting scared from it was funny. You were very funny, you would always make me smile even when my days were bad. I could always count on you with my secrets. You made my middle school year a memory to never forget because of you in it. I remember walking to lunch and i saw you near the computer lab getting a pencil from the pencil machine, i was walking over to you to say hi. But you paid 25 cents for the darn pencil and it wouldnt spit out a pencil for you. You got so upset you beat up the pencil machine and said "i could have bought a cookie with that" then you just looked at me and said "today just isnt my day" you smiled and laughed. watching you beat up the machine was really funny. That was one of the times you made me laugh. One of the times you made me smile were 8th grade mayfest, cinco de mayo.Olga crystal,you and i were all taking pictures together. Half of the pictures never even came out right. Once we got them developed we got to choose which ones we wanted. I chose the one were you and olga werent paying attention to the camera. Only crystal was paying attention smiling. You and olga were looking toward the side being distracted by some kid getting into trouble. At least you smiled right? But when i heard what happened on sunday. I cried my eyes out, i couldnt believe i lost you. I just couldnt believe it. The last time i talked to you was like three months ago, you seemed perfectly fine.I will miss you and you will always and forever be in my heart, a forever freind. I will cherish every memory we ever had. I will always remember you. My dear friend louis. from your crazy shy freind Brittany

Ayeee homie.. Man I don't know what to say.. We didn't get to really talked much but man middle school was awesome. Man I heard about the damn story and I just can't believe it. Sometimes I thought I was invincible, something like bullet proof, fire proof almost everything proof, but I guess nothing lastest forever. I miss you man, everyone misses you. Man I wished I could shed a tear but I just can't. After my dad died I couldn't cry, if I could I would. You mean alot to everyone and it kills me when I see people cry, I can't get the imag out of my head that your really gone. I remember me and your sister had goodtimes and she told me to watch after you in middle school. But when we got to high school we barely talked even though you sit couple seats next to me in French. Well I really can't do anything about it, your in a better place now with my dad. Watch over your family and friends...rest in peace my nig.

Louis. I still remember the first time we met. We went to the library and you were sitting alone at the table. Helen and I saw you and said we wanted to be your friends. Those were the fun times. I still remember we all got in trouble cause we talked too much so the teacher had to separate us. But that didn't stop us. You were carefree, you didn't care about anything and that was what made you unique. I felt so lonely on Monday. We would always sit together at lunch. But it felt really out of place. You weren't there to lift the mood. Everything you talked about was really random, but it made me laugh and smile. I think that this is all a really bad dream, but I have to face the fact that you're really gone. But even though you're gone from the surface of the earth, you'll still be in everyone's heart. Death is like wind. When it hits you, you feel it and you know you feel it. When i heard the news. I lied to myself. I just would not and could not even fathem you being gone. You were here. I hugged you then. We talk and held a conversation. I knew you. We were once all so close. Yes everyone has there moments where they wish they could vanish but you've got to understand no matter how alone you are. God's with you and always will be. I've been praying that you gave your life to God so maybe someday i can see you again in Heaven. Your one of God's angels Louis. Beautiful, pure, and such a good spirit. You let Lusifer tempt you to death. He took you away from everyone who ever cared about you. It just hurts that i ever lost touch with you. Me and your brother became close and for a fact I KNOW your brother loved you. No one will ever know what went through your mind but, these lies and hurt from other are killing the innocent. I love you Louis. You meant something to me. What Dennis wrote actually made me realize that you really are gone and your not here anymore.
